

EIGHT HOURS.

The Attorney General's Opinion
On the New Measure.

IT is General as to the Government
Laborers and Mechanics.

The Limitation to Public Works Applies
Only Persons as Are in the Employ of Contractors and Sub-Contractors—Sailors and Others.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—In response to a request from the acting secretary of war the attorney general has ordered an opinion as to the application of the eight-hour law to certain work and employees under the war department.

The attorney-general in his opinion says: "In view of the previous legislation upon the subject of the alleged evils sought to be corrected, and in deference to the legislative understanding and purpose apparent in debate and reports of committees while the act was under consideration—the act itself, without violence to its language being susceptible of either construction, I am constrained to hold that the law, as to laborers and mechanics in the direct employment of the government and the District of Columbia, is general, and that the limitation to public work applies only to such persons as are in the employ of contractors and sub-contractors."

"As to your second question pertaining to particular employees, I beg to suggest that its answer depends upon matters of fact not stated and not within my cognizance. If the employees named are ordinary laborers or mechanics working for the government for wages under ordinary conditions, the statute would seem to apply. At the same time it was quite apparent that, as to some of them, it might frequently happen that they would be within the emergency exception named in the statute, and as to others, as, for instance, sailors or other on ship board, or teamsters, their employment being peculiar, they might well be held to be, as a matter of fact, neither laborer nor mechanic with the meaning of this law."

Ground Into Bloody Shreds.
CINCINNATI, Aug. 30.—Two pieces of mangled flesh, the remnants of two human arms, are being held by the coroner of Covington as the only source of the possible identification of a now unknown man who was killed Sunday night. On one of the bloody pieces are tattoo marks, rudely showing a broken dagger. On the other is drawn a rough semblance of a pair of clasped hands and a rose. These pieces with others, were found last night at 11 o'clock, beside and upon the tracks of the C. and O. railroad at Stevens street. The victim had evidently been struck by the flying passenger train that had passed up the road some time before. He had been ground as though by the teeth of a giant, not a piece being left that was over twelve inches in length. In the bloody rags that had once been clothing there was found no paper or other article that would lead to identification.

Sullivan Receives an Ovation.
NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—John L. Sullivan was given a most enthusiastic reception at the Clermont avenue rink. Brooklyn, Monday night, the rink will seat perhaps 3,500 persons but in a pinch 4,000 may be comfortably accommodated. It was a pinch Monday night, and every available place in the big building was occupied. Soon after 10 o'clock the champion made his appearance and after repeated calls addressed the crowd. In his address, Sullivan said, "one week from Wednesday night will decide whether I am the John L. Sullivan of old or the John L. Sullivan passed by." A bout was then had with Jack Ashton, and three rounds put Sullivan in a big sweat.

Tattoo Will Die Friday.
BRISTOL, Tenn., Aug. 30.—Talt Hall, it is certain, will die Friday in some manner. If his friends in Floyd and Letcher county, Kentucky, attempt to rescue him, the guard around the jail will shoot him like a dog. Fifty more soldiers with Winchester were sent to Wise C. H. Monday, and the guard now numbers 100 brave and fearless men. Excitement runs high now, and the news which comes over the wire is of a suspicious character. Pickets are stationed several miles from the jail, and the entire guard is in constant communication.

Some Abatement at Hamburg.
HAMBURG, Aug. 30.—The official cholera statistics place the number of new cases of the disease reported on Saturday at 435, and the number of deaths at 145. On Sunday and up to noon Monday 148 new cases and 72 deaths were reported. The disease appears to be abating in several quarters of the city. There was much less demand for ambulances during the night.

Cholera in German Towns.
BERLIN, Aug. 30.—Several cases of cholera were reported Monday evening, from Rendsburg, eighteen miles west of Kiel; Olesloe, about an hour's ride from Hamburg, and Neumstern, seventeen miles southwest of Kiel. In all these towns families from Hamburg are said to have taken temporary residence within the last week.

Wealthy Farmer Ends His Life.
NAPLES, O., Aug. 30.—Early Monday morning John Hettisnyer, a wealthy farmer residing near here, was found hanging by two halters from an apple tree in his orchard. Despondency and temporary insanity may have been the cause of the tragedy.

Fatal Railroad Accident in Belgium.
BRUSSELS, Aug. 30.—A disastrous accident occurred about 9 o'clock Monday on the railway near Brussels by a collision between an express and an accommodation train. A number of passengers were killed or injured.

No Cholera in Havana.
HAVANA, Aug. 30.—The report which was put into circulation to the effect that cholera had appeared in Havana is untrue.

PROTECTION PROTECTS.

Special Investigation by the New York Bureau of Statistics of Labor.

The ninth annual report of the Bureau of Statistics of Labor of the state of New York contains the results of a special investigation into the effect of the tariff on labor and wages. Commissioner Charles F. Peck distributed 8,000 blanks to as many wholesale separate establishments throughout that state, and of this number 6,000, or seventy-five per cent, were returned with full and correct answers. The period of investigation includes the year immediately prior to the enactment of the McKinley bill and the year immediately following its becoming a law.

From the tabulated statement accompanying the report it appears that there was a net increase in wages of $6,377,925 in the year 1891, as compared with the amount paid in 1890, and a net increase of production of $31,315,130 69 in the year 1891 over that of 1890. An analysis of the table further shows that of the sixty-seven industries covered therein seventy-seven per cent, of them show an increase either of wages or product, or both, and that there were 89,717 instances of individual increases of wages during the same year.

Mrs. Conrad Rudy, an old and well known and highly respected lady of Maysville died at her home on West Second street this morning at 7 o'clock. She had been ill for some time and her death had not been entirely unexpected. She was 79 years of age. Date of funeral not learned.

ASHLAND THE PLACE.

Thursday, September 22d, the Time for the Republican Convention.

MEETING OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Ninth District Republicans to Nominate a Candidate for Congress and Elect Him.

Pursuant to a call from the District Chairman, Hon. Ed. Daum, the Republican Executive Committee for the Ninth Congressional District of Kentucky met in this city last evening at the office of M. C. Hutchins for the purpose of calling a convention to nominate a Republican candidate for Congress.

The meeting was an interesting one and resulted in the selection of Ashland for the place of holding the convention and Thursday, September 22d, 1892, at 4 o'clock p. m. the time.

Quite a fight was gotten up in the meeting as to the place where the convention should be held, and a tie existing between Maysville and Ashland the Chairman decided in favor of the latter city.

Several stirring speeches were made by members of the committee and others present.

W. C. RICHESON had the misfortune to thrust his knee through a glass show case at his store last Saturday, cutting some severe gashes in his leg.

SIXTY tin-plate establishments in Wales are closed, and ten thousand men are idle. Many of them sailed on Saturday for America in search of work.

ONYX of the finest quality has been uncovered at Middlesborough. The area of the quarry is about 300 acres, and a company, after a thorough investigation, has determined to erect works and develop it.

A COMMITTEE of Engineers of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad are in conference with the road officials in regard to rates of wages and some other matters of minor differences. No trouble is apprehended.

DURING the year 1892 thus far the ascent of Mont Blanc, once considered among the rarest of achievements, has been successfully accomplished by five Germans, four Americans, three Frenchmen and two Englishmen.

THE annual report of the Commissioner of Patents shows that during the year ended June 30th last there were issued 23,626 patents, including reissues and designs. Since its establishment the office has turned into the Treasury $4,102,441 over its expenditures.

O. D. BURGESS while engaged in digging an excavation at his residence on East Third street yesterday came across an almost perfectly preserved piece of ordinary baker's bread three feet below the surface. It was probably dropped from the lunch-basket of some of the workmen engaged in building the C. and O. road six years ago.

THE general manager of one of the railroads involved in the strike said that the pay of some of the switchmen at Buffalo equaled that received by the best skilled workmen at Homestead. "For instance," said he, "we pay one switchman $6,000 a year. Of course he holds a responsible post. And we pay another $4,000. Others get as much as $2,000." Some forty conductors employed by this company offered their services as switchmen until the company was out of trouble, and they were sent to Buffalo and took their places at the switches.

The Cake Walk.

The cake walk, like other robust amusements, dies hard. We ran it in the ground here last winter, says The Louisville Times, and the incarceration of its noblest exponent, the Hon. Frog Eye Walker, gave it the coup de grace. There are some people who regard it in the light of a great frivolity, and look with jaundiced eyes upon the belles and beaux who have transplanted it from the negro quarters to the drawing room of society. Great is public opinion. Like the lever sought by Archimedes, it can move the world. One of the most popular legislators in Kentucky fell like Dagon (in the eyes of his constituents) when he took part in a cake-walk. All hopes of political preferment were wiped right off the slate, and when he returns to his own vine and fig tree he will be allowed to remain in a state of innocuous desuetude for the rest of his life. His offense admits of no apology, and the discriminating voters who sent him to the legislature are now calling themselves "Dennis." On East, however, the foolish cake-walk still flourishes. It is advertised among the other amusements at Saratoga, and the Ward McAllisters of that fashionable summer resort are busily engaged in putting their best foot foremost.

Monday morning at 8 o'clock the City of Madison, in attempting to round out from the Big Sandy wharfboat at Cincinnati, caught on a reef of rocks, and her head swinging down, struck the guards of the Bonanza, which was lying at the lower wharfboat. Both boats were badly used up, but will be repaired at once.

Republican Convention.

On Monday, September 13th, County Court Day, the Republicans of Mason county will meet in convention at the Courthouse in this city.

It is important that every Republican in the county, who has the interest of the party at heart, should be on hand.

It is the intention to place a county ticket in the field and to thoroughly organize for the campaign.

Republicans all over the state are aroused and intend to make the November battle very interesting for their opponents.

A Peculiar Case.

John McNulty, the San Francisco murderer who has been in the County Jail for over four years under the sentence of death, is, in the language of Judge Murphy, who sentenced him, "judicially dead," and yet he may never have the rope placed around his neck. McNulty was to have been hanged last week, but the Sheriff's counsel advised that official not to proceed, as the Governor's reprieve did not specify the time for execution, and that the prisoner must be brought before Judge Murphy for re-sentence.

The District Attorney will now bring McNulty before Judge Murphy, but the Judge, speaking unofficially, says, "The time of execution having passed, McNulty, in contemplation of the law, is judicially dead. My court is done with him." If Judge Murphy adheres to this opinion when the matter comes before him judicially, then there is no power in the state to punish the murderer, even to imprisonment, and he will be set free.

Origin of Mugwump.

The origin of the word "mugwump" has been so often explained that we supposed everybody knew it, but to oblige a reader who renews the question, we repeat that "mugwump" is an Algonquin word. It was first used in a literary way by John Eliot, in his translation of the Bible into Indian in 1661, where it appears in several places as synonymous with chief or leader. In one passage, Matthew, viii, 5, where the King James version reads "centurion," the Eliot version has the words: "And when Jesus was entered into Capernaum, there came unto him a mugwump, beseeching him." The word was in common use among the New Englanders as a colloquialism, in the sense of "a person who thinks himself of consequence." In 1872 it was used in an Indianapolis paper as a headline by a man who had become familiar with it in England, and in 1884 it appeared in a New York paper to characterize the independents. It does not appear in Bartlett's Dictionary of Americanism, but it is in the new edition of Webster.—Albany Times Union.

Her Father's Ghost.

A lady who lives on Walnut Hills has no longer any faith in dogs as a protection from burglars, says The Commercial Gazette. Her husband has been in the East for some weeks on business, and she has been keeping their dog, a large white setter, in the house at nights as a protection from marauders. One night last week she was awakened by a terrible pounding, which she in her fright took to mean burglars trying to break in the kitchen. She turned in the burglar alarm for the Merchants' police, and in a few minutes a wagon-load of blue coats dashed up. Then it developed that the hammering was done by the servant girl, who slept in the third story. She said it was the anniversary of her father's death, and that his spirit, arrayed in white, had been gliding around the room. The poor girl was on the verge of hysterics, and had pounded to attract her mistress's attention, as she was afraid to get up. The officers went to her room and searched for the ghost, and there under the bed, they found old "Puck," the dog. He had wandered up to the third story, and the girl's imagination had turned him into a visitor from the other world.

Officials Efforts to Keep Cholera
Out Proves Fruitless.

Deaths From It Reported From Gravesend, Swansea and Bolton.

The Latter Place one of the Principal Seats of English Cotton Manufacture. Thousands of Mill Operators Live There—Cholera in Wales and Scotland.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—If all the deaths that are being reported from Asiatic cholera are true, there is no doubt of Great Britain having a visitation of the dreadful scourge. From Gravesend, Swansea, Glasgow and Dundee, towns in England, Scotland and Wales, come reports of death from the disease, showing that the efforts of the health officials to keep it out of the country have proved fruitless. Monday afternoon came a report that a person had died from Asiatic cholera at Bolton, the large manufacturing town which lies twelve miles northwest of Manchester. The place is one of the principal seats of the English cotton manufacture, and thousands of mill operatives live there.

The permission given by the health officials at Middlesborough for the landing of the crew of the steamer Gerona, from Hamburg, promises to have most serious results. As announced in these dispatches, the vessel was placed in quarantine after one of the crew had been attacked by cholera, but in the meantime a number of the ship's company had departed for their homes. Six of them went to Dundee, where they reside, while another of the crew went to Aberdeen. Among those who went to Dundee was Mr. Walker, the engineer of the Gerona. Shortly after his arrival there he was taken sick and died in a few hours.

The physician who attended him says that there is no doubt that his death was due to cholera. When it became known that Mr. Walker was dead the greatest excitement prevailed in Dundee and also in Aberdeen, where the seventh member of the crew ashore had gone. Steps were at once taken by the health officials to isolate the remaining five of the crew in Dundee and the man in Aberdeen until all danger of their spreading the contagion is past. The residents of both places, however, believe that the men have been allowed to go about the towns long enough to spread the disease if they carried the infection and there is widespread anxiety prevailing in every quarter of the towns. An extraordinary watch will be kept in both places for the first appearance of choleraic disorders.

A sailor arrived at Swansea Monday, from Cork. He was found to be suffering with cholera, and was immediately removed to the cholera hospital. The appearance of the disease in Swansea awakened the port authorities to the responsibilities of their position, and a meeting was summoned to decide upon measures for the prevention of any further invasion.

Another member of the Gerona's crew, who went to South Shields Monday, was found to be suffering from cholera.

THE WORK OF FIENDS.

Two Boys Tie a Sleeping Playmate to the Ground and Then Set Him on Fire.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 30.—Monday evening about 9 o'clock Frank Coleman and James Crawford, colored boys, found Willis James, one of their playmates, asleep. They tied his hands and feet, wrapped cotton around his limbs, saturated it with kerosene and touched it off. James was awakened by the flames and screamed so lustily for help that several other colored men were attracted to the spot. Coleman and Crawford were dancing around their victim, singing: "Ta ra boom de-ay," and making no effort to save his life. Before the other colored men could smother the flames James was so badly burned that he will probably die. James Crawford escaped, but Coleman was arrested.

Corbett in Splendid Condition.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Jim Corbett, the California pugilist, who is matched to fight John L. Sullivan, did enough work at the Madison Square garden Monday to tire out the bravest stevedore in New York. Not only this, but he came through it all fresher than many of the spectators who watched him work. All day long he hammered and raced, and jumped and toggled and slugged without any apparent effect other than profuse perspiration. His lungs seemed made of leather and his muscles of steel.
